An aerial photograph of the University of Virginia campus, centered on the Rotunda building. The Rotunda is a large, circular, red-brick building with a white dome and a portico supported by white columns. It is surrounded by other campus buildings, green lawns, and trees with autumn foliage. In the foreground, there is a large, curved graphic element consisting of multiple parallel lines in shades of green and blue, sweeping from the bottom left towards the center. The text "No Parking Pass is Required" is located in the bottom right corner of the image.
